Public Programs

Harbor Wildwatch delivers four unique environmental education programs to the general public in Key Peninsula—Gig Harbor—Islands (KGI) Watershed. Our longest running program is the Get Your Feet Wet experience. This summertime event introduces beachgoers to the unique animals that live in the intertidal zone at our local city, county and state parks. Visitors interact directly with live marine animals through guided beach walks and “touch-tanks” led by our experienced staff and trained volunteers. 2014 brought the 11th season of Get Your Feet Wet with 64 programs delivered to 8,216 people.

Pier Into the Night gives visitors a glimpse into what life is like at night in Gig Harbor Bay through a virtual SCUBA diving experience. A video camera is attached to our volunteer divers as they explore the waters below Jerisich Dock. With a live audio feed from the diver to the surface as well, anyone can experience what it’s like to dive in Gig Harbor Bay without getting wet! In 2014, we delivered 17 Pier Into the Night events to 5,814 individuals.

The Citizen Science Experience trains citizens to collect meaningful data to help protect and preserve our natural resources. From biodiversity monitoring at local beaches to counting spawning salmon returning to local creeks, this program hosted 17 training events for 205 volunteers in 2014. In 2014, we moved into our first office space open to the public at the Skansie Brother’s House in Downtown Gig Harbor. This unique partnership with the City of Gig Harbor gave us the opportunity to offer a variety of educational experiences at the Skansie House including interactive exhibits and guided walking tours. In 2014, over 2,000 residents and visitors of the greater Gig Harbor community visited us at our new location at the Skansie House.

Youth Programs

Harbor Wildwatch is committed to delivering unique educational programs for our local youth that focus on science, technology, engineering and math (S.T.E.M). The Harbor Outreach Program consists of 20 interactive workshops that explore various topics including glaciers, wetlands and salmon. In 2014, we delivered 453 classroom workshops to 11,136 students.

The Explore the Beach/Estuary program immerses students in the outdoor classroom to learn about the unique beach and estuary environments. Students are challenged to put their classroom knowledge to work as they see zonation, predation and adaptation demonstrated first-hand. 69 Explore the Beach/Estuary programs were delivered to 1,699 students in 2014.

The seaStars & Beyond program is Harbor WildWatch’s most intensive program for young nature enthusiasts. Over 10 months, students ages 8-12 explore a variety of environmental topics through monthly workshops—from marine mammal anatomy to ocean acidification. Students also learn to interpret scientific information to the public by volunteering and completing a self-guided service project to benefit the local environment. In 2014, 41 students and their parents and/or guardians participated in the seaStars & Beyond program.

We also developed the Harbor WildWatch Internship program in 2014 to assist students pursue higher education and careers in environmental sciences. Two interns participated in the first year—a recent college graduate and community college student. Shortly after the internship ended, the graduate was offered a position with the Washington State Department of Fish & Wildlife and the student was accepted to Western Washington University to pursue a degree in Environmental Studies in the fall of 2015.
